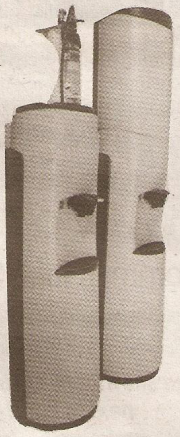
Ditch the bottle and save money

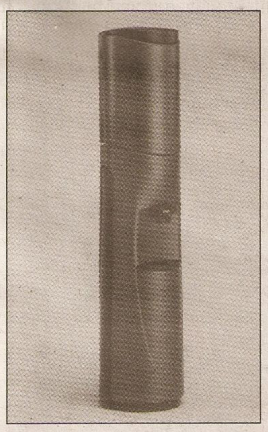
By LJ Bradly

Have you struggled with bottled water? Lifting those heavy jugs, paying high premiums and delivery charges? Well then Alpine Water Systems has solutions for you.



Alpine water is a Nova Scotian owned company that provides homes and businesses with a variety of bottle-less water products. The Alpine Water Cooler is unique because it plumbs directly into an existing water source somewhere in your home or office. This provides a continuous flow and you never run out of water. Because there are no bottles, there are no hassles with deliveries, bottle storage or splashes when lifting the bottles.

Customrs can also expect to see a significant savings. Filtered water is often less expensive because all the production and shipping costs are eliminated. A typical office spending $100 (plus) per month can expect to save around 75% of their office water cost.



The owner of Alpine Water Systems, Marinko Vaci, says, "bottled water can be contaminated with BPA, dust, or dirty hands - whereas filtered water eliminates any handling or plastic contaminations". Alpine Systems are sealed off from the outside environment, so air contamination cannot get into your water cooler. This is a big difference when you think of your bottled water cooler; the cooler reservoir becomes exposed to the outside air almost on a daily basis.

Alpine bottle-less water coolers can also help the environment by eliminating any green house gases emitted by the production and transportation of plastic bottles "Most folks don't realize how far some of these bottles have to travel just to get to your door" says Mr.Vaci.

o find out how you can help the environment, and your wallet, you can visit www.alpinewater.ca.Their eco - calculator will take your existing bottled water information and show you how you can benefit from an Alpine Water System.